Journal Interdisciplinarity

Virnaliz Cruz

10/16/2019

```
import os
#Creating empty list
filenames = []
#For loop that iterates through current directory files
for file in os.listdir("."):
    if file.endswith(".txt"):
      #Appending text file names without extension to list
      filenames.append(os.path.splitext(file)[0])
```

```
#For loop that iterates through file names
for (v in py$filenames){
  txtname=paste(v,"txt",sep=".")
  #Creating data frame by file name
  df = read.table( txtname,fileEncoding = "utf-16", stringsAsFactors = FALSE, sep= "\t",header = TRUE, fill = TRUE,check.names = FALSE, quote="",na.strings=c("NA","NaN", " ") )
  #Selecting variables of interest
  references0=df %>% select(AU,TI, SO, DT, C1, PD, PY, CR)

  #Splitting cited references and defining as lists
  references=str_split(references0$CR, ";")

  #Renaming lists
  names(references)=references0$TI

  #Separating references into lists of lists
  litvect=sapply(references, function(row){
    str_split(row, ",")
        })

 #Creating vectors to hold data
  x=vector()
  y=vector()
  uid=vector()

  #Updating vectors with data
  for (i in 1:length( litvect ) ){ for(j in 1:length( litvect[[i]] )    ){ x[length(x)+1]=litvect[[i]][[j]][3]
      y[length(y)+1]=names(litvect[i]) uid[length(uid)+1]=i

    }#end for loop j

  }#end for loop i
```

```
#Creating data frame from vectors
z=data.frame(uid1=uid,article=y,citedjournal=x) csvname=paste(v,"csv",sep=".")
write.csv(z,file = csvname,row.names=FALSE)

}#end for loop v
```